

Person 1: (enters the elevator carrying a bag of books and turns around to press the button for the 7th floor)

Person 2: Excuse me, that's actually the button for the 9th floor.

Person 1: Oh, my apologies. I couldn't see the buttons very well with this bag of books in my hands.

Person 2: No worries, it happens. Can I help you with those books?

Person 1: That would be great, thank you. I just came back from the library and got carried away with all the books I borrowed.

Person 2: I know the feeling. What are you reading?

Person 1: A few different things - some history books, a novel, and a biography. What about you?

Person 2: I'm actually on my way to a meeting, so I don't have much time to read these days. But I always try to make time for a good book.

Person 1: Yeah, me too. Well, thanks for your help and have a good meeting.

Person 2: Thanks, you too. (both exit the elevator and go their separate ways)